What is a Blessing?

Some might say,

a blessing is getting that long awaited raise at the workplace. What is a blessing?

Some might say,

getting that new home, or getting that new car, or acquiring some large sum of money is a blessing. What is a blessing?

Some might say,

having great talents, such as being a great musician, a great athlete, or a great scientist is a blessing.

Those things might be considered a blessing to some people, but a real blessing is being fortunate enough to have an incredible MOM like I do. For example:

What mother do you know, who has taken care of a family, a career while finishing their education. Or,

What mother do you know,

who is always there to defend her children. Or,

What mother do you know, who can cook the best Red Velvet cake in one hand and teach Cortez Peters typing instructions with the other. Or,

What mother do you know, who enjoys the laughter of her children more than the children themselves. Or,

What mother do you know, who gets more excited if her son gets an interception in football rather than a touchdown. Or,

What mother do you know, who can play only one song on the piano, but with that song, one would have thought she was a true pianist. Or,

What mother do you know, who gives everyone she meets that welcome home, come on in feeling. Or,

What mother do you know, who acts as if she is an adopted MOM to many others and loves every minute of it. Or,

What mother do you know,
who loves living more!

What mother is this,
My MOM, the most remarkable, inspirational woman in the world to me. I love my MOM and she is a blessing for me.
